FARMER NEEDS BETTER FINANCING, SAYS QUICK

"In these days, the farmer has be-come the observed of all observers," said Harbert Quick, member of the Federal Farm Loan Board, speaking before the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, in the rooms of the organization last night at 1214 F street northwest. "I never want to see," said Mr. Quick.

"the American farmer ever get to be like the European or Asiatic farmer. I never want to see the American farmer a slave to his crops. We are the best exten-sive farmers in the world. We are not keen on intensive farming, however. But the world is going to reckon with, and be mighty thankful for the American farmer before very long. "We have realized for a long time that we needed a different and better system of financing the farmer. But the problem of financing the farmer had neared solution in the Federal Farm Loan act far more than by any other legislation ever enacted either by the States or the Federal government."
